This is a general note for emily provides unmatched insight into each student's progress across their entire academic portfolio, combining assignment and test results, attendance history, teacher observations and feedback, and even examples of student work into a rich panoramic view of the student. With the ability to view all aspects of the student's journey, issues and trends can be identified and addressed with the teachers and parents involved long before they become unmanageable. And, as an administrator, you can know that you'll never be caught off guard when parents call.
